

Enemies

You see struggles as struggles,
You see dreams as dreams,
But what do you see in yourself.

Do you persevere, or have these struggles defeated you.
Do you envision, or have these delusions misguided you.

Why do you seek something external to yourself,
Are you too concerned with what was and what will be.

If I pushed you down that cliff, would you be able to climb again.
If I let you through this gate, would you be able to dream again.
Or would you become hollow.

Obstacle advances Action,
Ambition advances Conscience,
What are you if not consciously acting.

Once you pass this gate, there will only be the untrodden,
Each step will make a mark, on you, as much as where you walk.
I cannot give you freedom, for you must take it with your own hands.

Beyond this gate, none will oppose you,
Because you have no enemies

No one does.